What we do

We believe it is not fair that churches, charities and small businesses often struggle to find skilled people to undertake administration tasks. Often leaders are forced to undertake tasks themselves, or delegate them to people who lack the skills. This can restrict growth, increase stress and reduce the efficiency of an organisation.

Connect Supply is an opportunity for churches, charities and businesses to access expertise in communication, HR, finance, IT and other services that they do not need to manage or fully fund on their own.

We liberate teams and leaders to focus on the direction and health of their organisation. Our creative team of visionaries can help leaders rediscover their mission. We can help leadership teams develop a plan for growth and provide connections to other organisations, funders, ministries and services that may be unfamiliar to them.

Our culture

Our focus is on people. Whilst we work hard to support the charities and churches we serve, we believe that personal relationships and family life are important.

Whilst our core working hours are Monday to Friday 9am—5pm, we encourage a flexible working style. Our team work from home and whilst we sometimes need to be available at times that suit our customers, we can often fit our work around our personal and family lives.

We are not a formal social enterprise however we will use profits to support charities and churches.
